Who can nominate a teacher?

- Teachers may not self-nominate.
- Nominations are welcome from all individuals except for the nominee's principal who will be responsible for an independent evaluation.
- No individual may nominate more than one teacher.
- Nominations made by students in grades K-5 must be accompanied by an endorsement from an adult within the space provided online.

What teachers are eligible for nomination?

- Eligibility for the award is limited to full-time, classroom teachers in grades K-12 employed by the public school divisions of the City of Richmond, Counties of Chesterfield, Hanover, and Henrico, and the Department of Juvenile Justice in these localities.
- Teachers must have completed a minimum of three years of full-time service.
- Past winners become eligible at the beginning of the sixth year following their last award. (example: A teacher who wins an R.E.B. Award in 2017 will be eligible for consideration again in 2022.)
- A teacher cannot be selected as an award finalist more than twice during a five-year period.

Can a teacher be nominated more than once in a program year? Will it increase their chances of being selected as a finalist?

Due to the high volume of nominations received by the Foundation, only one nomination per teacher will be advanced to the steering committee. If multiple nominations are received for the same teacher, the first complete nomination will be considered.

R.E.B. Awards for Teaching Excellence – FAQs

Should I inform the teacher of the nomination?

YES! Not only should you let the teacher know you plan to nominate them, but you should confirm that they have received the email your nomination generated. The email will give them access to the Nominee Response & Release section of the nomination they will be required to complete.

You should also follow up with the teacher's principal to be certain they have received the email to access the Principal's Evaluation portion of the nomination.

NOTE: Emails that are generated from the online system will come from 'The Community Foundation' and can sometimes get caught up in SPAM or Junk folders.

Can I submit the nomination before the teacher and principal have completed their sections?

YES! You should submit the nomination by the stated deadline, whether the teacher and/or principal have completed their sections or not. Following that deadline, the teacher and principal have a separate and later deadline by which to complete their sections.

NOTE: Once you complete the Nominee Response & Release and Principal's Evaluation sections, regardless of whether you complete and submit the nomination, the teacher and principal will immediately receive an automated email prompting them to complete their sections. To avoid the teacher and principal completing their sections unnecessarily, please follow up with them should you decide not to complete and submit the nomination.

Can I check on my nomination to be certain it was submitted and received by the Foundation?
