What is a Community Foundation?

Community foundations are public charities that guide philanthropy and improve the quality of life in a specific geographic area. They are governed by volunteer boards of informed citizens and run by professionals who are experts in addressing community needs. Typically, community foundations serve and champion their communities by:

- Partnering with individuals, families and organizations to make giving easy and effective.
- Strengthening nonprofit organizations through grants, training and other supports.
- Providing leadership and insight to important community issues.
- Promoting a local or regional culture of philanthropy and service.

About Us

The Community Foundation for a greater Richmond is a leading partner and advocate for philanthropy and service in the Richmond region. Founded in 1968, we have built a strong legacy of helping people and institutions to give back with passion and purpose.

Today, we manage more than 1,200 charitable funds with assets totaling $1.1 billion. This includes six supporting foundations that have chosen to fulfill their charitable legacy in partnership with us, as well as three regional affiliates that were established to address the needs and interests of the Middle Peninsula and Northern Neck. Since our inception, we have collectively granted $1 billion to thousands of nonprofits working to support and enhance all areas of community life.
